Ruth was a lifelong resident of Des Moines and active member of Highland Park Presbyterian Church. She graduated from North High School in 1936 and maintained many long-term friendships with her classmates.

In 1938 she married Emery Gustafson. During WWII, Ruth served as a dental assistant at various military bases which included Santa Ana, Fort Dicks, and Temple, TX. She later went on to work for her brother-in-law Dr. John Gustafson as a dental assistant.

Emery and Ruth had three children, Todd (Helen), Philip (Susan), and Jean (Chris); five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren (with one on the way), and many nieces and nephews. Ruth was preceded in death by her husband Emery, companion Jesse (Jack) Grange, her sister Jean Smith Chenowith, and brothers Franklin Turbett and Ted Brubaker.

Ruth was known to friends as Tootie, and was deeply loved by everyone who knew her. Her home was open to students, friends, and travelers. She was a beloved and kind soul who found the positive in every person and in life. Ruthie loved painting, crossword puzzles, Scrabble, and watching goldfinches in her backyard.
